Some Work

I use predominantly hot glass to create factual and imagined objects that often take the form of individual pieces or collections of curiosities. Inspiration comes from many sources. Personal experiences, peculiar facts, elaborate hoaxes and more recently voyages of discovery, endeavour and exploration all help to inform, whilst a passion for both traditional craft skills and innovative new technologies play an important part in the execution of the work.

The works aim to provide a narrative and certain 'Britishness' through this traditional craft approach that invites the viewer to interpret them through combinations of snippets of information, title or the objects themselves.
